Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

All symptoms indicate another waterfront war extending from San Francisco to Sacramento. The River Lines, so far as boats are concerned, are paralyzed, and trucks have been substituted. These will be formed in trains guarded by deputy sheriffs. One is almost convinced that there should be compulsory settlement of labor disputes. The fault with such a procedure is that it would lend itself so readily to vicious politics.

If this war proceeds to the usual cruelties and bushwhacker blood letting, undoubtedly state guardsmen will be called out to force a peace. Memory goes back to other wars: Men seized, their arms stretched over street curbings and strikers in heavy boots breaking the bones, goods or haybaler hooks used as weapons to tear the faces of strike breakers into ribbons, men captured, bound and gagged and tossed quietly into the bay. One truck driver in the present controversy has lost a River Lines truck. Strikers ambushed him, stopped his truck on a pretext, and turned it over in a ditch.

Labor is entrenched and fighting in spots across the map of the United States. Usually communists flock to these sore spots and increase the confusion, the maiming and the killing, until troops arrive and enforce a truce. In this country communism is inevitably bound to fight a losing battle. Against them are arrayed all home owners, small business men, and of course the great corporations. The majority is overwhelming. If these labor wars become general and spread over too wide an area, enlisting perhaps ten times the forces now involved, only one thing could happen in this country, fascism. Uncle Sam will don the steel helmet much sooner than he will pick up the sickle and hammer.

In the meantime these wars do indirectly force those who have, to make concessions to those who haven't. For instance, Gov. Merriam has just signed a bill which will help cushion old age and destitution against the cruelties those conditions entail. The amendments to the old age security act will help to defeat communism and its allies, by cutting away the ground on which it stands. The government. Federal, state and local, becomes more and more paternal. In time it will care for all those incapable of caring for themselves, even including those who wilfully refuse to do their part. In fact it is doing it now, as anyone may learn who will take the trouble to examine carefully the SERA payroll.

Gradually we shall see an increase in government employes, until as in France, perhaps, we shall find twenty adults out of every 100 employed by Federal, State of local government. Our pioneer days are done. The population slowly increases, filling, like some living liquid, every cranny, every foot-hold in the broad land where a living may be obtained. If this writer were advising young men and women today on where in the future the best opportunities for employment and security is to be had, he would say: "Fit yourself for government employment, in hospitals, in medicine, in law, in forests, in road building, in aviation, in banking, in land reclamation and settlement, in business administration, in engineering of all kinds, in teaching, in research, in agriculture, in electrical service and expansion, in postal and railway activities, in conservation of natural resources of any and every kind." For today, government, and by that we mean, Federal, State and local, one or all, is engaged in these activities, and with few exceptions their conduct and administration is notoriously wasteful.

Nevada City to Give Scout Benefit Card Party on Seven Hills

A double-barrelled, seven-hilled card party for the benefit of the two boy scouts chosen to represent the Nevada City Boy Scouts and the Cubs at the national jamboree at Washington, D. C., which opens in the middle of August is scheduled for Wednesday night, July 31 and the following Wednesday night, August 7.

It is expected that these two card parties will provide the major financing for the trip and its expenses for the two chosen scouts.

The committee in charge of these events, of which Elza Kilroy is the chairman, will name a captain for each of the seven hills of Nevada City, who will appoint own committees on these hills and hold as many card parties as possible. At this card party those with the highest scores will keep them and at the great community card party to be given in Armory Hall, on the following Wednesday night, they may add their two scores in the competition for prizes, of which a number have already been donated.

The captains of each district will take as many 25 cent tickets, as they have players engaged and will "collect" from their guests, in the same manner as was done by the hostesses in the great 200 table card party, so successfully held in Grass Valley last Wednesday evening. Some hills of course will provide more card parties than others, but in the aggregate it is hoped to have 100 tables of cards going forward on the night of July 31.

Proprietors of several cafes, taverns and inns in Nevada City have also expressed their willingness to help in this big benefit for the boy scouts. In the most of them card games will engage the attention of expert players throughout the same night.

The parties will be given on the lawns, in gardens and in the homes of the various hostesses.

The great community party of Wednesday night, August 7, will be held in Armory Hall, the use of which has been generously donated by the Nevada City Fire Department. At that time it is planned to seat fully two hundred card players. At both parties the choice of games will lie with those participating. Whist, bridge, pedro or any kind of game the players prefer will be available.

Mrs. Elza Kilroy, of Lost Hill, plans a twenty table card party next Wednesday evening. Anyone who wishes to take part in the big lawn and house party at the Kilroy home are cordially invited to phone 45 for reservations. This party is preliminary to the two big events scheduled for July 31 and August 7.

Big Volunteer Crew Building Community House at San Juan

Fifteen men have volunteered and are busy building the San Juan League Community hall at North San Juan. Twenty more men stand ready to help just as soon as the work progresses to a point where their assistance can be effective. The fifteen builders are all wearing the tropical white straw helmets, for it is just as warm, these rays, in North San Juan as it is in Nevada City.

The building is to be fifty feet by ninety feet over all. There will be a stage and dressing rooms at one end, and plenty of benches made for community events.

The volunteers of San Juan Ridge are working against time, for on August 17 and 18, when the great San Juan Ridge Fiesta takes place. Girls from various parts of the county, announcing their candidacy for queen of this event, the first of its kind since those early, roaring days of the gold rush.

Among those girls who have announced their candidacy are: Lucille Browning and Dorothy Thomas of Nevada City, Lois Davis of Forest and Adele Cunningham of North San Juan. The opportunity for candidates to enter this contest is still wide open, and any girl in Nevada county, may enter her name by sending it to Christian Anderson, Box 295 Nevada City, or see him personally at his residence in Red Men's park. Each girl enters the contest with 5,000 votes to her credit.

A great program of dancing, amateur theatricals, minstrels, and other events has been arranged. There will be feasting and family re-unions. People from far and wide who formerly lived on the Ridge are being invited to return and celebrate with those living there now, the rejuvenesence of this famous area.

The San Juan Ridge Improvement League which is sponsoring this great celebration, is pointing toward that time when the Ridge will become a small farm rehabilitation project. The cherries which have made San Juan almost as celebrated as its gravel and quartz mines, are an index to the agricultural potentialities of the entire Ridge, provided there is an adequate supply of water. The people of San Juan Ridge now believe that with the building of the debris dam at the narrows, and the resumption of gravel mining on a huge scale by the River Mines company and others, will not only result in bringing in an abundant supply of water for mining purposes, but also for agriculture. With the restoration of a mining population there will of coudse be a local market for dairy products and fruits and vegetables that can be readily raised there.

Water Pageant July 26 Is To Be Spectacular

The water pageant, the first of its kind in Nevada county, which will be held next Friday evening at the swimming pool in Pioneers Park, promises to be a spectacular event that will delight both the youngsters and their parents. A team of expert swimmers will draw around the pool a beautiful float, on which will be seated charming mermaids and handsome mermen. Neptune in long weedy whiskers and a trident will speak in royal command to his myrmidons, the tritons. Addison Janes life guard is in charge of this novel affair.

The title of the gay water drama is "Showing Neptune." In the end, Neptune, having been shown takes a mighty dive into the pool and does not return again.

Archie I. Rowen, Signal oil products distributor for Nevada county is contributing a very essential part of the float, consisting of six empty drums on which the float will be built.

The Nevada County Lumber company is lending lumber enough for 500 seats on the terraces above the pool. Tickets for admission to the great show, next Friday evening are now on sale at the swimming pool at 25 cents each. The entire proceeds will be spent in park and pool improvements.

ADULTS TO PAY ADMISSION

At their meeting Tuesday evening the Nevada City Park Commission decided to make a small charge to adults for the use of the pool. This was done after carefully considering all factors. The charge of fifteen cents for all persons over 21 years of age, will entitle the person paying admission to a towel and locker. The great majority of the users of the pool are boys and girls. The admission charge will therefore apply to only about 20 percent of those

NEVADA CITY TO GET $2,296 MORE IN GAS TAXES

With the signing of the Knowland bill by Governor Merriam the municipalities of the state are guaranteed one quarter cent share of the gasoline tax fund. This increase, with the present one quarter cent share, will give to Nevada City a half cent share amounting to approximately $2,296 per year, or about double the present amount of gasoline tax money being received by this city, according to figures issued today by the California State Automobile Association.

Cities will begin to receive the additional amount this fall. The increased allocation to cities will come from the state's share of the gasoline tax and so will not disturb the present one cent share to counties.

The measure was introduced by Senator William F. Knowland of Alameda county at the instance of the League of California Municipalities and embodies a policy adopted by the directors of the Automobile Association last November.

TO LAKE OLYMPIA THEY ARE COMING 4000 STRONG

Mr. Fred Garrison, chairman of the California State Employees Association picnic which will be held at Lake Olympia on Sunday, July 21, has received a letter from the Sacramento chapter. This letter states that 1,000 members in Sacramento have accepted the invitation to come to the picnic. They will come from Sacramento in a motor caravan under state highway patrol escort, arriving at Lake Olympia at about 10 a. m. Sunday.

Four thousand members and families from the northern district are expected at the picnic, at which swimming, dancing, music, games and contests will be enjoyed.

SAN JUAN LEAGUE

In order to reduce the hazard of fires throughout the Ridge the San Juan Ridge Improvement League has purchased fire extinguishers and will place them at North San Juan, Birchville, Cherokee, French Corral and Sweetland. State Forest Supervisor Bill Sharp suggested to the league that this would be one method of stopping incipient blazes before they had time to spread and gather volume.

Several Noted Mines Resuming Operation

A canvas of the operating mining companies made yesterday reveals a further increase in the number of miners employed this month. The total of those now working is 2,396, as compared with 2,344 last month. The payroll has been stepped up to $355,440 as compared with $328,160 in June.

Properties which have resumed operation in the Nevada City district include the Mack, which closed during the winter, the Green Mountain, resuming after a year's idleness, and Consolidated Metals in vicinity of Lake Vera, which has taken an option on a large acreage.

In the Washington district, the Mt. View mine, closed last fall, has been reopened. The Lady Bug, under 5-year option, has also been reopened. The Foss gravel holdings are being reopened.

There are rumors more or less founded on the fact of negotiations in progress, that other properties are to soon resume operation. Reports from the various mining companies now operating follow:

RAGON MINE

Mr. O. McCraney, who is reopening the Ragon mine west of Nevada City, has reconditioned the mine shaft in record time. Work of unwatering started June 15 and was completed June 29 with a heavy flow of water to go against; sinking, which had to be handled with care, started July first and was completed July 13, the company giving a holiday on the 4th. Some timbering has been done and the old north drift cleaned out. By the end of this week a big program of drifting will be under way.

DEER CREEK UNION MINE

Work has slowed down at the Deer Creek Union property in the Banner Mountain district southeast of this city, the company being delayed due to waiting for supplies. John Rust of Sacramento is in charge of operations.

MACK MINE

Within the last few days Bruce Wallace, official of Los Angeles county, arrived in Nevada City and on Tuesday started to unwater the shaft at the Mack mine known as the McCutcheon property in the Banner Mountain district southeast of Nevada City. As soon as this is completed development work will continue from where it left off last fall.

LAVA CAP PROPERTY

Sinking in the main shaft at the Lava Cap property southeast of Nevada City has progressed 100 feet in the projected 200 feet of new work the shaft now being down to the 1700 level. Work of enlarging and retimbering is progressing in the long drain tunnel. The mill is treating 190 tons of ore per day and the company has 160 men employed. A 40x50 foot all steel blacksmith shop is being erected. The company has just purchased the 227 acre McDonald ranch to the west and adjoining the Lava Cap, making 1300 acres in all in the property. Otto E. Schiffner is superintendent of the property.

GOLDEN TRIANGLE

The Golden Triangle Mining Company has resumed the operation of its property near Graniteville, California. Some additions are being made to the camp, and in the mine work will include the straightening of the Schepp shaft and tunnel repair in some of the other properties. A new crosscut tunnel, estimated to require 500 feet of work, will be driven. Charles Mason, and W. W. Esterly of Grass Valley are presi-

Drink, Drive, and Then—

(Contributed)

At almost the same hour one day last week, two men in California courtrooms miles apart were pleading guilty to driving while drunk.

Both were suffering mental anguish such as few men ever know.

One grieved because his child lay still unconscious in a hospital, perilously near to dying. She had been with him in the crash his drunkenness had caused.

The other man had been driven to drink by a previous smashup in which he had seen his two children burn to death.

In Hollister the first man, Clifford Moore, awaited sentence for his crime. In Oakland, Superior Judge Ogden committed the case of the second man, Merlin J. Smith, to the probation office after witnesses had testified that he had not been himself since he saw his two children die.

These men who drink, drive, and then suffer deserve little sympathy, it is true. They asked for what they got. But others, including children, suffer—sometimes even lose their lives.

Behind the cold black headlines we skip hastily over day after day, week in and week out, lie countless tragedies of twisted minds and bodies, of human wreckage strewn in the wake of auto accidents.

And still men, knowing better, continue to drink, and then to drive . . .

Long Live the G-Men!

(Contributed)

The gangster is dead, long live the G-Men!

Gangsters are not all dead, of course. But that somewhat melodramatic slogan, serves well enough to summarize what is happening these days, in the public's opinion of the law and the outlaw.

Where the outlaw was once the hero in the movies, the newspapers, books and magazines, the law has now taken over. The law, that is, in the form of those relentless, hard-hitting sleuths, the Department of Justice agents.

This is not merely a change for the better. It is a revolution in public psychology and attitude that means more to crime prevention than any other development of the present century.

Glorifying the gangster and sneering at the "flatfoot" insidiously built up a rampant disrespect for law. It seeped even in to the minds of children, who liked to play the lone gunman, defying the world.

Now all that is changed. The child wants to be the G-Man, and even grownups tend to admire his ability almost to the point of hero-worship.

But while the nation is profiting from a shift of attitude, California is still hesitating whether or not to put over another crime reform—establishment of state police.

Certainly a good many thinking people are behind the idea, including such organizations as the California Taxpayers' Association, The California Farm Bureau Federation, most of the big newspapers of the state, civic groups and a host of others.

State police, you will find, almost any one of those fighting G-Men will tell you, are of great assistance to him in his work of apprehending criminals.

Last in Babies!

(Contributed)

California may lead the nation in gold, citrus fruits and tourists. California may have the world's best climate, the highest mountains and the deepest valleys.

But when it comes to babies, this state is at the very bottom of the list!

The Census Bureau at Washington has just disclosed that California's 1934 birth rate was the lowest of any state in the Union.

Were California a self-sufficient nation, this fact might be alarming. It would be a calamity in Italy, where Mussolini pays bounties for large families. It would be a blow to France, where the League to Raise the Birth Rate, or some such body, is functioning full blast.

The comforting thing about our situation is that while this state's rate was at the low of 12.7 per 1000 population, that of the country as a whole was rising to 17.1, making the first increase in a decade.

So our lagging position is nothing to get excited about. One cause for it is California's caution in the matter of not permitting the mentally deficient to have children.

SWITZERLAND AND FRANCE HOARD GOLD

As a result of renewed hoarding and the further acquisition of substantial stocks of gold by stabilization funds, April and May of this year saw the shrinkage of the available monetary gold reserves of the world by more than $7,00,000,000, the largest loss in years. It was the first reduction since December, 1933. The chief losers among the leading world nations were France and Switzerland. Durng May, when political and economic upheavals were severe in France, that country lost $552,000,000 of gold reserves, principally to the United States, England and Belgium. Switzerland lost $56,000,000. Monetary gold stocks of the United States in May on the other hand, showed an increase of $148,000,000. In figuring the loss in world monetary gold stocks, new production and reclamation of scrap metal are not considered. This would have added $170,000,000 in the two months, April and May, so that the actual loss to the world's yellow metal reserves must have been close to $900,000,000. The virtual 'sterilization" of this metal places an additional strain on monetary reserves, and also tends to increase the market price of gold. The total monetary gold stocks of fifty leading countries in the world is estimated around $21,388,000,000, of which the United States on May 31, 1935 was reported to have $8,858,000,000, or about 41% of the world holdings.

BOYS TO RECEIVE LIFE SAVING CERTIFICATES

Badges and certitficates for junior and senior life saving certificates will be awarded at the Nevada City park pool for successfully passing the Red Cross requirements are: Phil Coughlan, senior; Phil Joyal, Donald Bosworth, Buster Williams, Ainsley Youyeer, Charles Thomas, Norman Kopp, junior. The boys will be presented with their badges as soon as they arrive; they have been ordered in San Francisco.

LONGEVITY INCREASES

The population of the United States is growing older, according to Prof. Barbara Nachtrieb Armstrong of the University of California. The decrease in birthrate and increase in longevity are given as reasons for the increase of 140 per cent in sixty years of persons in this country who attain the age of 65 years.

DIESEL FUEL IS DUE FOR TAXING

Expectation that a plan for taxing Diesel fuel used in motor vehicles will be worked out and adopted at the next session of the legislature is expressed in a statement by the California State Automobile Association. Difficulties in devising a fair and workable method of taxing Diesel motor fuel on a basis comparable with the tax on gasoline threw the measure into the final days of the last legislature, with the result that no Diesel tax was adopted.

While the number of vehicles which would be affected by such a tax is at present small, the motorists organization declares it holds to the view that potential Diesel power development warrants provision for a tax that will assure a proper contribution to highway costs by Diesel-powered vehicles the same as by users of gasoline.

Contrary to popular belief, the statement points out, there are but a small number of trucks equipped with Diesel engines now operating in the state. There are not more than two hundred such vehicles, according to information from the Department of Motor Vehicles and other sources.

Belief that the number is greater is attributed to a mistaken impression that whenever an exhaust pipe is seen extending vertically above a truck it is an indication of Diesel equipment. The practice is declared to be increasing among all truck operators, gasoline and Diesel alike, in order to eliminate objectionable fumes on the highways.

Problems concerning the Diesel tax are reviewed in the Automobile Association statement in commenting on the fact that the measure went to the unfinished business file as the legislature adjourned.

HALE BROS. SACRAMENTO

When the Monitor Was Busy in California

(By ROBERT C. ALLEN)
In The Mining Journal

Avalanche gold! Truly a fitting designation for that most spectacular of mining methods—hydraulicking. By that means millions of cubic yards of rock, dirt, gravel, were literally torn from their deposits, leaving to this day leering gashes, barren wastes, and high rimmed pits.

Perhaps never again will the earth's face be gouged and mutilated to the extent achieved during the period from 1852 to 1893. The passage by Congress in March 1893 of an act entitled: "An act to create the California Debris Commission and regulate hydraulic mining in the state of California" sounded the death knell for the huge mining operations which had changed the topography and blanketed many square miles of arable lands in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys with gravel tailings.

The term hydraulic mining applies to alluvial mining operations where water under pressure is used for excavation, transportation, washing and disposal of tailings. Primarily, the gravel is struck with sufficient force to be disintegrated and broken up so that it can be carried by the current into the sluice, if the bed rock has sufficient grade.

The inception of this methods of mining is generally accredited to Edward Mattison of Connecticut. However, recent facts uncovered nominate one John Icard for a share in the esteem held by Mattison. A Texas ranger, Indian fighter and sailor, Icard drew on his store of practical knowledge to force the gold from its fortress by this means. While he may have been preceded by Mattison in another section, his method was original with him and first used at Rough and Ready.

He conceived the idea of directing a stream of water, under pressure, against the gravel bank from a nozzle and by so doing eliminated the pick and bar necessary in ground sluicing and flume waterfall work. The water was conveyed through a hose of stitched cow hides, with a cow horn for the nozzle. While the method was certainly not an engineering feat and may seem a trifle ludicrous, it carries the distinction of having been the first attempt.

Others soon took up the system and the size of the nozzles rapidly increased. But difficulties here arose. Cow hide and canvas pipes had been all right for a starter, because of the small scale of operations. The demand for greater force soon showed the weaknesses in the equipment, for an excess water volume burst the pipes, caused them to buck, resulting in injury to men and in general disorder.

Stovepipes next replaced hawhide. These were followed by barrel staves and finally the more modern piping arrangements, plus the perfection of the nozzle, were accomplished.

Mining camps which had been made up chiefly of small panning and Long Tom operations were transformed into large communities—working entire banks, digging miles of ditches to carry the water, and developing improved sluices and means of recovery. Such towns as Rough and Ready, Timbuctoo, Sucker Flat, Smartsville, You Bet, Red Dog and others teemed with activity. Outlawry held its sway much of the time for, after all, actual civilization was far away and temptation strong.

A brief resume of hyrdaulic methods in their transitional period prives instructive.

Cow horns and wooden nozzles being found impractical for any considerable volume of water, the next step was a goose-neck arrangement of two elbows turned in opposite directions. To the end was affixed the nizzle. High pressure again caused ueakage, and after many serious accidents, coupled with losses of life, newer smoothly working affairs were developed. They were called in the order of their advancement: Globe monitor, hydraulic chief, dictator. little giant, and the hydraulic giant. Each carried additional power and safety devices.

Early in the game an apparatus known as a distributor came into usage. It consisted of a large metal case with one inlet from the supply pipe and numerous outlets to which the monitors could be connected, thus washing in three or four different positions from the one source. Its draw back was that it could never be used on a large water head.

Banks ordinarily were caved by turning two or more streams against a point in such a manner as to undermine them. When the water was delivered with a force from 150 to 200 pounds pressure to the square inch it rapidly undermined the mass, washed away the material and carried the debris into the sluice. If the wall was fairly soft and caved readily one pipe could be used for cutting while the stream from the other washed the gravel through cuts in the bed rock to the sluice. When the men at the pipes saw that the bank was about to cave the water was immediately diverted, for if the cave shauld fall on water a rush of debris was almost certain to follow, burying the pipes and forcing the men to run for their lives. Woe be to the luckless unfortunate who stumbled!

Usually washing was continuous, 24 hours running, in order that no water was wasted. It was desirable to have several working faces or openings so that the streams might be diverted from one to another.

It was a thrilling sight to view the streams of water, carrying heads of two, three and four hundred feet, tearing into colossal banks with an impact sufficient to throw huge boulders as easily as a garden hose tossed pebbles. Following the undermining, came the "cave," as this mass trembled and fell in slithering avalanche!

Considerable trust was placed in the man at the controls of the "giant," as he must at all time keep the situation in hand. A false move and the huge stream might sweep the pit clear of workmen and equipment. If the bank contained a stratum of clay, together with a considerable quantity of large boulders, it was possible to cut the clay in such a manner that it would lubricate the way for the boulders and they would slide over the bed rock and into the sluices as though the way had been greased. So an experienced and heady pipe man was invaluable as he took advantage of the different classes of material in such a manner as to get the most work out of the water.

Now and then a pipe blew up. Usually anyone within a close radius was instantly obliterated and a story is told of an entire crew being annihilated at a gravel bank in the La Porte district, Plumas county, when a monitor broke loose.

Some miles to the southeast of the Grass Valley sector, most consistent of all California gold mining districts, is situated the town of Smartsville. Here many of the original steps in hydraulicking were developed. This district, combined with the adjoining sites of Sucker Flat and Timbuctoo, accounted for a known production record exceeding 15 million dollars, in a comparatively short period.

Hand driven tunnels, in which procedure one man held a steel and turned it while another smote it with a sledge, were pushed through solid bed rock and mountain for a distance of 2,200 feet, attesting to the courage and ingenuity of these old timers—most famous of whom was Paddy Campbell.

The latter gentleman was a great transgressor of the law and usually kept one jump ahead of the sheriff. His acute trickery and adeptness gained him several million dollars, all of which was squandered characteristically.

Paddy Campbell's methods of mining were often unique. Upon the passage of the anti-debris act, prohibiting hydraulic mining because of its damage to the lower country and cluttering of the streams, the old gentleman did considerable "moonshining," which is to say he piped behind the back of the law, stole water at night from the ditches, etc. Official permits were occasionally issued to move a certain amount of dirt under extenuating circumstances. Therefore, Campbell would innocently involve himself in huge debts with various concerns and then inform them he had no more money, and that they would have to secure for him a permit to pipe a certain number of yards so he could run enough dirt to pay. The merchants would then resort to politics, securing the necessary peremission. Surveyors set stakes on the banks marking the point to which he might wash, while he sallied forth in the darkness to move the stakes a little farther back. Often the Marysville sheriff attempted to catch him on some charge and many a time one friend engaged the sheriff in conversation, or in some manner delayed his progress, while another took a short cut to Campbell's dwelling to warn him, on which occasion he promptly repaired to the hills until official wrath quieted down.

As the 300 foot banks at the Smartsville Pit were of a cemented gravel formation and of undue hardness, it was necessary to shoot and blast them down. Usually a drift-tunnel was driven in for a distance equivalent to about two-thirds the height of the bank. Crosscuts projected from this—the whole forming a Block T. Giant blasting powder had not as yet been developed so the crosscuts were loaded with kegs of black powder, these exteending partly down the drift as well. Upon withdrawing, several strong bulkheads were thrown across the drift and the fuses carried out. The fuses were lit and the resulting explosion disintegrated the bank, broken gravel being piped.

It was here and in this fashion that operators set off the mightiest charge of explosives in the history of hydraulicking. Seven thousand kegs of black powder and pure nitroglycerine were packed into the drifts and exploded, bringing down thousands of cubic yards of gravel.

Along with methods previously mentioned there were many details which went into the program of working the gravel. Bull-dozing was a common procedure and was effective in breaking up boulders too large to wash into the sluice or dispose of by stacking. A quantity of powder was plastered to the rock and fused. This might be done to as many as a score of boulders. The fuses were then lit in succession, the men withdrawing until the fireworks subsided. In this practice it was necessary to keep one's head clear of flying projectiles.

But the drama and developments were not alone confined to the hydraulic pits, themselves. Many times in order to furnish the required capacity of water for carrying on workings, long ditches and flumes had to be constructed a distance of many miles. The water from the melting snows of the high Sierras must be caught as an almost unlimited supply and volume was necessary.

Visualize the construction of these ditches and flumes, 20, 30 and sometimes even 40 miles long. Around precipitous angles and turns, across

STATE FORCES BATTLE FLAMES; CCC BOYS HELP

At the time of going to press late last evening fire was raging in the hills south of the Auburn road, about one mile from the Red Cap service station. State Ranger William Sharp yesterday issued a call for men from Colfax, Auburn and Sacramento and fought the flames Wednesday night and all day yesterday. A fire at Buena Vista also made a threatening start yesterday and this was extinguished with the help of the big crew from the CCC camp at White Cloud.

A crew of forty men from this camp will go this evening to relieve the hard worked fire fighters mustered into service by Sharp. Over 200 acres had been burned over last evening and the fire was still going strong in this area a mile south of the Auburn road.

Last night a fire started in the dump alongside the road that leads to Lake Vera about 600 feet over the brow of the hill. Many Nevada City people dump their garbage there, despite the fact that the city's dump is located almost as conveniently, a quarter mile beyond Lost Hill.

The Nevada City fire department sent a truck to extinguish the flames, but when it was found that the fire was outside the city limits, the truck came back. The forest service sent a crew and put out the flames by stringing 600 feet of hose and pumping a stream of water from the city's fire hydrant at the top of the hill.

Eddie Hammermeister, of Puyallup, Washington, who has resided in this city for several months, has received word he was awarded a scholarship last June which entitles him to an assistant's position in the School of Mines in the University of Washington, which he has accepted and will assume this fall.

CAR TURNS OVER ON SHARP CURVE

Lewis Elkus of the Davies Garage was called out on the Tahoe Ukiah highway Wednesday to tow in a car belonging to B. L. Fleming of Reno, Nevada Mr Fleming's car had skidded in loose earth and gravel on a hairpin turn not far from Lake Spaulding above Bear Valley on the new piece of road. The car had received considerable damage from its turning over.

This is the same piece of road that the car of Jeff Mooers of Grass Valley, turned over three times last Sunday. It is reported this is the fifth car in an accident on this stretch of road in recent weeks.

Mr. John Tognarelli and daughter, Catherine, are spending a few days on a fishing trip.

WATER PAGEANT TO BE SPECTACULAR

patronizinz it. The commission stated that it believed that in view of facilities provided, including 100 modern lockers and towels, and well lighted and well kept modern pool, this charge was very moderate. The actual net on this little transaction will be but 10 cents per adult. No where in the state, it is believed, are equal facilities for swimming offered so cheaply.

A gate will be erected at the booth and this new plan of charging an admission will go into effect today when the pool is re-opened after a thorough cleaning. A crew of SERA workers assisted by Addison Janes, life guard, are giving the walls and floor of the big pool a thorough scrubbing in a strong solution of chlorine.

Committees appointed by the commission at its Tuesday night meeting consist of Mrs. George Gildersleeve and Mrs. Leland Smith, to have charge of the costuming for the water pageant. Phil G. Scadden and H. M. Leete to look after seating arrangements for that event, and Mr. Scadden and Mrs. Gildersleeve, an auditing committee.

CIVIC CLUB THANKED

The following resolution was passed thanking the Women's Civic Club for their aid in purchasing a new vacuum cleaner for the pool. The resolution follows:

WHEREAS, in promoting the welfare of Nevada City in all departments of its community life, the Women's Civic Club has generously donated to the Nevada City Park Commission $150 with which to provide a vacuum cleaner to remove sediment from the municipal pool, now therefore, be it

Resolved: that the Nevada City Park Commission heartily appreciates this gift and extends its thanks to the Women's Civic Club for its generous civic action.

(Signed):

R. J. Bennetts,
P. G. Scadden,
Mrs. Nettie M. Gildersleeve,
Mrs. Leland Smith,
H. M. Leete.

The new apparatus will be installed as quickly as possible and it is expected that with its use practically all sediment, carried into the pool with the water, will be drawn off each morning, keeping the water clear.

SPECTACULAR DIVING

Among other features planned by Janes for the water pagaeant is a "water babies revue," in which the tiny tots will do their best to help entertain the big audience assembled on the terraces above the swimming pool.

There will be high diving feats from a high platform to be erected within the next few days, the swan dive, the double somersault, and the fire dive. Those participating in these spectacular feats are Walt Hallett, Howard Keene, Curtis Clark and Spud Glennon.

Mayor Al Seaman will make a dedicatory address, following Neptune's acceptance of the pool as his royal habitation.

Opening the big show, will be a "grand march" of swimmers, around the pool, going through their seal like evolutions to the music of the Nevada City high school band, under the direction of L. E. Sweeney. During the evening the band will play at intervals on the porch of the community house.

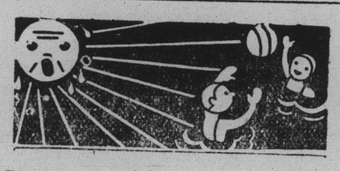
A Glimpse of Building Activity

VOL. 1. JULY 19, 1935. No. 15.



Plastering Contractor C. Fertig has just completed an excellent job of plastering in the new residence being constructed for Mr. Lobdell on the Grass Valley - Nevada City highway. The general contractor on this job is George Bobst.

Our lines of siding and rustic for Homes and Cabins includes many patterns in pine, redwood and Douglas fir. Special patterns can be made up if so desired. We will be very glad to show you our stock, and advise with you on your requirements.

General Contractor Ralph Cochrane has a crew of men very busy on the construction of a theatre building at Truckee. We notice a large pile of bales of Palco Bark Fibre on the job a few days back, so the patrons and tennants of this building are going to have the benefit of proper insulation.

Large walk-in refrigerators have been constructed for years using Palco Bark Fibre for insulation. Standard tests and practical experience on this material show a high degree of insulating efficiency and the cost of the fibre is very low in comparison with other materials of a like insulating value.

Took a trip through the back country from here to Sierra City and made the loop back through Forest and Alleghany. Lots of life and activity up in those districts with new bridge to go in at Downieville.

SAN JUAN MINE

Three shifts working over a 24-hour period are trucking ore from the San Juan mine near Birchville at the rate of about 400 tons per day. Ray Butterfield is in charge and has about eight men employed.

YOUNG AMERICA GROUP

Sixteen men are employed in a development and general prospecting program at the Young America group of claims on Sardine Lake above Sierra City. Since the cleaning out of the old workings on the property diamond drilling is being done to determine size and location of ore bodies. If satisfactory results are obtained a tunnel of several thousand feet is to be driven. H. R. Plate of Nevada City, who is in charge of the Spring Hill mine northeast of Grass Valley, motored to the property Monday.

CONSOLIDATED METALS

H. B. Morse has a crew of four employed in cutting poles for mine timbers on the Goering and Marks properties northwest of Nevada City, which his company, the Consolidated Metals of New York, have just taken under option.

FOSS GRAVEL PROPERTY

Within the last few days James Allen and a crew of three resumed drifting operations in the 1,000 foot long tunnel on the Foss gravel property taking up work where it was left last fall, due to the wet winter. The property is situated just above the Drum Power House in the Remington Hill district and is under option to Allen and Muscardini both of Nevada City.

FREDERIC MINE

Development and stoping of ore continues at the Frederic mine in the Willow Valley district northeast of Nevada City. A drift is being driven northeast in the lower levels of the shaft, 17 men are employed.

RELIEF HILL

Reports reaching this paper are that plans are going forward for the spring cleanup at the Relief Hill gravel property above North Bloomfield where the company has been hydraulicking for several weeks. This company built their own restraining dam early in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner Entertain "The Rambler"

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Conner, who reside at the P. O. Strandberg home on Grove street in Nevada City, had as guests last Saturday evening Mr. Lou Eichler, editor of the column, "The Rambler," in the Marysville Appeal-Democrat, and Mrs. Ben M. Giroux, of Marysville. The visit proved a most delightful one as Mrs. Giroux's mother was a pioneer child of Camptonville where her parents conducted a hotel and stage station in earlier days. Mrs. Conner's parents also for a time resided in the district above North San Juan.

DRUNKEN DRIVER IS CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

After three hours of discussion, last Wednesday afternoon, during which twelve ballots were taken, the jury sitting in judgment on Richard Henry Williams, Jr., of Dutch Flat, who was charged with manslaughter, and driving while intoxicated, returned a verdict of guilty on both counts. The jury went out at 3:30 and returned to the court room at about 6:00. Judge RaglanTuttle announced that he would pass sentence this morning at ten o'clock. The penalty for the minor charge, driving while intoxicated, will be a fine, according to the jury's recommendation under the statute.

The jury who convicted young Williams follows: Frank W. Gavienne (foreman), Ray Teale, George Hargrave, George Carey, Maurice Kach, Merritt Weeks, G. P. Bower, Albert Carston, Everett Tibbetts, T. R. Shealey, Carl B. Jones and C. E. Gassaway.

The greater part of the day preceding three o'clock was devoted to the testimony of the defendant, and to the closing speeches of District Attorney Vernon Stoll, and counsel for the defense, W. E. Wright. Eben K. Smart, highway patrol clerk, testified that it was his belief that the defendant was intoxicated on the night of June 9 when Smart saw him after the accident. T. E. Stanley was questioned and said that he saw the defendant in an intoxicated state in front of Stanley's Gold Run store on the morning before the fatal accident in which young Russell Miller of Grass Valley was killed when struck by William's model A Ford on the Colfax road about 10:30 Sunday night. June 9.

The three-quarters empty half-gallon jug of wine was shown in evidence, it having been in the car together with a gallon jug, broken at the time of the fatal collision.

The defense case hinged on the facts that there were no witnesses who saw Dick Williams take more than three glasses of wine and two beers during the day, that his actions after the accident were those of a sober man, according to the defense, and that the defendant's ankle was injured and in such a condition as to give the impression of staggering hen he walked.

The prosecution produced witnesses during the trial who said that Williams was drunk in the morning before the accident, was driving his car very recklessly at the scene of the accident. and Dr. Carl P. Jones testified he was still under the influence of liquor after the accident.

WHEN THE MONITOR WAS BUSY IN CALIFORNIA

high, rocky gorges—danger and unending hardships. Picture the driving, beating and cursing of the labor bosses; the clear, cool camps at night—early California!

A remarkable degree of respect must be maintained for these old builders as most of the ditches are in use to this day and water from the snows is impounded in reservoirs for irrigation purposes.

Synonomous with the history of hydraulic mining, the name Malekoff stands forth as the greatest of all operations. Located in the North Bloomfield district, out of Nevada City, are the remains which are today magnificent testimony to the mining that was. Banks of 600 feet were worked in three benches with perhaps the most systematic and well-organized operating arrangement carried out by any of the numerous pits.

Giant monitors ejected streams of water carrying 500 foot heads into the cliffs, eating them away with calculated efficiency. The plan, of course, was to move as much dirt and yardage as possible with a minimum of working effort.

Today with the present price of gold, attention is again being directed toward the feasibility of resuming work on some of the old hydraulic properties. While tailings dams running into high figures must be installed to impound waste, a number of enterprising concerns are attacking the gravels with much of the old time fervor.

Outstanding among these operators is the You Bet Mining Company, near Grass Valley, whose courageous efforts to overcome existing disadvantages marks them as pioneers in modern hydraulic rehabilitation. During the past two years hard rock tunnels for elimination purposes have been driven, sluices installed, latest type monitors purchased and a good deal of yardage moved. Powerful arc lights facilitate 24 hour piping operations. A saw mill was erected and the heavy timber of the surrounding forests utilized in the construction of an up-to-date comfortable camp. Through all the driving personality of Ogden C. Chase has pervaded and ultimate success should be assured.

The ancient Smartsville sector has not been neglected and while no site is available for the efection of a tailings dam, thus eliminating present hydraulicking attempts, other and interesting methods are being employed by the Gold Exploration Mining Company, subsidiary of Tintic Standard. Drifting in under the banks, worth while values have been encountered and a development program is in process which includes mill construction and complete surface plant. M. D. Paine, superintendent, spent his early youth in the North Bloomfield district. His varied mining experience and ability to cope with unusual conditions make him adapted for this departure in drift mining.

So it is once again we find history repeating itself and as the stimulus of present activity revives interest in those early-day methods we must view with feeling the great gashes of the hydraulic mines, and long dead echoes of the past seem momentarily awakened.

How One Man Lost 25 Pounds

John Lethaby of Portland, Ore., writes: "Have known Kruschen Salts for years in England, Africa, Brazil. I weighed 190, chest 40, waist 42. After 6 weeks with Kruschen am 165, chest 42, waist 36. It gives me pep and vigor and has kept me young."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, butter, cream and rich pastries.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

MAN INJURED IN BASEBALL GIVEN BENEFIT DANCE

(By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE)

One of the most successful benefit dances ever sponsored on the Ridge was given last Saturday night, July 13, at North San Juan. This dance was given for the financial assistance of the family of Mr. Percy Hepburn who was seriously injured in the left eye in a ball game at the Improvement League picnic on the Fourth of July.

Hardrock Dennis and his Forty-Niners provided the music and his orchestra was assisted by Mr. Oscar Payne on the violin and Mr. Tex Weaver on the banjo. Chrstian Andersen, master of ceremonies introduced Mr. W. E. Moulton of French Corral who addressed the assembly and thanked them, in behalf of Mr. Hepburn, for their generosity. Mr. Moulton also commended the folks on the ridge for their amity and neighborliness toward one another in times of distress.

At the conclusion of this speech Mr. George Uhrig sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and "Where the River Shannon Flows." Mrs. Joseph Sweazey who possese a gifted voice of unusually sweet quality lured the dancers to join her in singing many of the old songs that are forever dear to both the young and the old-timers. Mrs. Christian Andersen accompanied on the piano, by Mrs. George Murphy sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "The Isle of Capri."

The music of the orchestra as well as the voices of the speakers and singers was carried plainly to every corner of the hall through the marvelous amplifier generously donated by the Kipp Radio Service of Grass Valley.

Mr. Andersen announced that the contest for the queen of the Fiesta which is to be held during the week ending August 17th at North San Juan is now open for the young ladies who desire to compete for this honor. Those desiring to enter should write or interview Mr. Havvey Trubeshenk of North San Juan who is chairman of thecommittee who is chairman of the committee Andersen was pleased to announce that Miss Adele Cunningham of Grass Valley, Miss Irene Browning of Nevada City and Miss Edna Uhrig of North San Juan have officially entered the contest and it is hoped many more young ladies of this section of the state will follow their example.

An unusually large crowd of out of town people attended this dance and helped to swell the happy throng of merry makers. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lighthall, Mr. Edward Maddes and Tex Robinson of Visalia who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kneebone's party from Bridgeport consisted of Miss Catherine Harris of Berkeley, Mr. Robert Dodds, Miss Renee Dennis, Miss Lucile and Alfreda Kneebone, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Broun.

Mrs. Jennie Simpson of Point Affiance had as her guests Mr. and Mrs. Luddy Hyman, Mr. Alfie Jerrad, Mr. Harold Lewright of Anson Week's orchestra, San Francisco, Miss Hazel Lewis and Mr. Roy Zimmerman of Albany, Oregon.

HOMELESS BOYS WILL TRAIN FOR U. S. CITIZENSHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Concentration of 225 of California's estimated 1800 homeless boys today was in full swing at Clyde, Contra Costa county, as plans neared completion for the formal opening on July 20 of the country's first Citizens Training Corps for transient youths.

The task of mobilizing the youths from widespread sections of the state and of outlining a comprehensive program of education and vocational training for them during their six months period of enrollment, is being directed by Frank Y. McLaughlin, State Works Project Administrator.

Stressing the need of an extensive program of vocational and educational work among transient juveniles, McLaughlan declared that recent surveys revealed that between 1200 and 1800 homeless boys are roaming through California, beating their way on freight trans, sleeping in jungles and begging or stealing for their food.

TO TEACH TRADES

The corps will be open to boys from 16 to 21 years old. During their period of enrollment efforts will be made to ground them in useful trades and occupations which they may enter as apprentices upon the expiration of their term of study. Full attention also will be paid to their education, with particular stress laid upon physical, vocational and citizenship development, said McLaughlin.

Warning that jobs under the new four billion dollar work program must be filled from the ranks of able-bodied men and women who were on relief during May, 1935, was given today by Frank Y. McLaughlin, California Works Progress Administrator.

RELIEF WORKERS ONLY

"To avoid misunderstanding and false hopes of persons not on relief or who have become eligible for relief subsequent to May 31, last, it must be emphasized that under the new program, as approved by the President, persons employed upon Works Progress Administration projects must come from the relief rolls," McLaughlin said.

Not until the lists of people on relief throughout the state during May are exhausted can others be assigned to the new program, McLaughlin emphasized. Only where it is impossible to fill jobs calling for high technical skill from the relief rolls can outsiders be called in.

Relief clients on SERA projects which the Works Progress Administration will take over will be re-assigned to their jobs if they are eligible to relief when the transfer takes place, the State Administrator said.

SOME TO BE DROPPED

Drastic measures calling for the discontinuance of relief to persons refusing to report for work on SERA projects to which they are assigned and also to those deliberately failing to report at placement bureaus, for work assignment, were instituted yesterday by Frank Y. McLaughlin, California Works Project Administrator.

McLaughlin's program for dealing with clients who refuse to work were issued in a special bulletin dispatched to all SERA division heads, area and county directors, and field representatives throughout the state.

"Since relief through the SERA is granted primarily by means of a work program, all clients when assigned to work projects are required to accept such assignments and to perform the work assigned to them to the best of their ability," McLaughlin advised SERAofficials.

"The deliberate refusal of a client to report at the placement bureau for work assignment, or to report for work on the days shown on his work assignment, or to perform work to the best of his ability, constitutes a valid reason for discontinuance of relief."

TEACHERS TO BE CARED FOR

Authorization to continue the Emergency Educational Program for employment of teachers eligible for relief under its present SERA setup until further notice has been received at SERA headquarters from Washington.

Use of a July educational grant in an amount as yet unannounced to finance a teacher training program for teachers on relief who will be eligible to teach under a new educational program now in process of formation was authorized in a telegram from Aubrey Williams(Assistant FERA Administrator.

SERA covered the language field pretty thoroughly within the last year, according to reports from Los Angeles vounty on the various classes conducted down there. There were 1,166 classes, offering 362 subjects and, Spanish was the most popular. The curriculum included, besides English and Spanish, courses in Russian, French, Esperanto, German, Japanese, Yiddish and Hebrew.

MACHINE GUNS TO GUARD MINTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—Nellie Taylor Ross, the first woman director of the mint, is organizing a ring of machine gun guards to protect the nation's gold fortune of nine billion dollars.

To the alert former Wyoming governor has been assigned the task of seeing that this vast cache of wealth is safeguarded and she does not intend that there shall be any slip-up.

In line with the government's action in moving the gold stores far from seaports to inland centers, Mrs. Ross is modernizing the protective devices which guard the mints and assay offices. The gold movement is admittedly to protect the stores from an invading enemy, which might capture San Francisco, New York or even Washington.

Prior to the time Mrs. Ross took office, gold and other precious metals were stored in vaults considered safe enough.

From now on the mints and storage vaults will be patrolled by guards, selected for their physique and marksmanship. They will lug revolvers, and sub-machine guns and their past will be carefully investigated.

Congress has been asked for an appropriation to permit purchase of equipment which will answer the needs of the mint service. Tear gas systems will be installed with alarms which will sound at the slightest interference.

For the time, gangland's own submachine guns, seized under the recent act regulating the sales of firearms, will be used to equip the guards.

In each mint center, coast guardsmen are given target practice and instructions in use of all firearms. Each of the mints has its own target range.

Mrs. Ross will not discuss the many changes under her regime in terms of national defense, the factor which caused the treasury to move the gold stores to Denver, and to Fort Knox, Kentucky, where natural conditions will aid the army forces in protecting them. Mrs. Ross will discuss the new moves only interms of gangland.

"Conditions have changed tremendously in regard to protecting the mints," she said. "When I took office they ere coning practically no money. Now they are working 24 hours a day. New help has been put on and in spite of every checkup we make, there is still danger that a wrong person may be employed.

"In addition the stores of gold and silver have been tremendously increased. It needs the best of men to do proper guard service. Hereafter they will be required to meet strict physical requirements. They must be stalwart and alert. They must be in uniform to increase their morale and to make them easily identified.

A. M. TOM

HERB SPECIALIST

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—
For years I was a sufferer from constipation. My blood was out of order and my kidneys and bladder bothered me terribly causing dreadful back-aches. On top of all this I had female trouble.
I tried several doctors but none helped me. One recommended an operation which I dreaded as a previous operation did not help me.
One day my husband noticed A. M. Tom's advertisement and suggested that I visit him. Having taken Herb treatments for five weeks, I am well again, and able to go back to work.
I cannot praise A. M. Tom too highly and if you are suffering I honestly recommend you to see him as I know what he has done for me, he can do for others.
